DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS,
HENRY D. ALLEN, OF UNION COUNTY.

Sam Clark, who killed Carney at Mayfield, was given ten years in the penitentiary. He will take an appeal.

Italy is showing a very friendly feeling for the United States. Should the nations of Europe divide up, she would be very apt to line up on our side.

All fear of yellow fever at McHenry, Tenn., has passed away and the quarantine has been raised. The disease was handled so promptly and effectively that it was not allowed to extend beyond McHenry.

Gov. McCord has announced that he has received indefinite leave of absence from his duties as the Executive of Arizona and will take command as Colonel of the regiment of infantry now being recruited in the four Territories.

Commissioner Scott has ruled that where money is deposited in a bank and a certificate in due form is issued to the depositor, this certificate, if "not drawing interest," requires a two-cent stamp, but if no certificate is delivered to the depositor, and a credit is made upon his pass book, it does not constitute a certificate of deposit, and is not subject to the tax.

Lopez Chaves, Blanco's former secretary, is said to be under arrest in Mexico for trying to organize a raiding expedition into Texas. He had enlisted 500 Spanish sympathizers when taken in charge. The intentions of the Mexicans are no doubt kindly towards Texas, but the will confer a favor by turning the "invaders" loose. What the Texans would do to them would be a plenty.

Now it is the Northwestern coast instead of the Northeastern that is frightened to death over the Spanish gunboats. The Navy Department has been informed that a Spanish privateer carrying five guns is hovering off the coast of British Columbia. According to last accounts the privateer was between Price Charlotte Sound and Dixon's Entrance. Prompt instructions have been sent to the military authorities of the northwest coast to prepare for a visitation. The privateer is supposed to be lying in wait for gold-laden ships from Alaska.

The people run out of Santiago by the threat of bombardment are proving a burden to the Americans. Twenty thousand refugees are now within the American lines at El Caney to be fed by Gen. Shafter. This he can not do, as it is with difficulty that sufficient food for the men in the trenches can be brought to the front. The refugees, mostly women and children, were practically driven from Santiago by Linares. As a rule, they are open in their hostility to the United States, and many of them are the families of men serving in the Spanish ranks. The Red Cross Society is aiding somewhat in caring for the refugees, but can not do much.

The war will, while extending our domain, at the same time sound the death knell of the narrow-minded policy of protection. Hereafter we will be a nation among the nations of the earth and the world will be our field. That the present administration understands this, is shown by the following from the Philadelphia Press, whose editor is a member of the Cabinet: "The United States is done with isolation. It is through with small differences. This country wants trade, and it is going to have it. The American people is looking out, not in, facing forward, not backward, and it stands ready to lend a hand to every scheme and proposal which heals differences with England and invites reciprocal trade."

"I. R." on the postage stamps is as grammatical as "the United States is."

THE EIGHTH DISTRICT RACE.

The Democratic convention to choose a candidate for Congress in the Eighth district will meet at Danville to-morrow. There are four candidates, Hon. Geo. G. Gilbert, Hon. Jas. B. McCreary, Hon. Jno. B. Thompson and Hon. B. A. Crutcher.

The county mass conventions were held Saturday and a lively interest was shown. The conventions were in many counties the largest ever held. In Anderson the number participating was 1300, in Lincoln 1278, in Boyle 1292 and in others equally as large. The instructed vote for McCreary is 64, for Gilbert 60, for Thompson 17 and for Crutcher 14. The vote for McCreary represents his total strength in the district, leaving him seven short of a nomination. All of the other candidates are supported by delegations either instructed second choice or unalterably opposed to McCreary. In Anderson county the resolutions took a whack at McCreary, declaring "That merely to stand on the platform is not enough; he must believe in the principles set out and advocated in the platform." This grows out of the well known fact that it took Mr. McCreary about two years to decide which side he would go with.

There are no contests and the convention will probably be organized by the opposition to McCreary with perhaps a Crutcher man in the chair. That they will eventually get together there is hardly a doubt. Gilbert lacks only 18 votes of having enough and has 7 votes in Jessamine after Crutcher. Thompson's 17 votes will go to Gilbert whenever they leave Thompson. There appears to be but one combination that can beat Gilbert, that is for McCreary to throw his entire vote to either Thompson or Crutcher. As he and Thompson are unfriendly, Crutcher appears to be the most probably dark horse.

WHITEWASH COMMISSION.

Gov. Bradley Appoints a Court of Inquiry to Investigate.

Frankfort, Ky., July 11.—Gov. Bradley has appointed Capt. Wm. Turner, of Bowling Green; Capt. Calhoun, of Lexington, and Col. A. E. Wilson, Judge Advocate General, of Louisville, a court of inquiry to investigate charges made by Col. Castleman and members of the Louisville Legion against Col. Forrester and others in regard to the removal of arms from the Louisville Legion. The personalities growing out of this have caused the caustic card writing between the Governor and Colonel.

AWFUL CRIME.

An Inhuman Mother Tries to Drown Her Infant.

One of the most heinous crimes ever perpetrated in our city was attempted Sunday, says the Guthrie Courier. Mary Long, daughter of Dan Long, residing near Olmstead, grew tired of her three-week-old child and attempted to end its life. She procured a coffee sack and put the babe therein, then went to the branch near the railroad and pitched the child in. Some parties found the child during the day and notified ex-Judge Wilcox who, together with some other citizens, went down and rescued the child. The woman stated that she was persuaded by another woman to do away with the child. Upon a promise to take care of her offspring the child was returned to the inhuman mother.

Ed Leigh Victimized.

Col. Edw. O. Leigh was short-changed yesterday by a newsboy on the I. C. road. He came to Paducah from Owensboro. At Princeton he bought a paper and gave the boy a $5 gold piece instead of a nickel. He noticed his mistake a few minutes later and informed the boy, but he declined to give up the money. Mr. Leigh reported the robbery to the railroad officials and will have the boy discharged.—Paducah News.

YOUNG CUBAN HERO.

Fourteen Years Old, But a Major in the Insurgent Army.

Time and Again He Has Led Successful Attacks on the Spaniards—Now in America to Study the Science of War.

Fourteen-year-old Crescencio de Varona is studying at Hempstead Institute, Hempstead, R. I., close by where the New York Regiments are now in camp; he is a veteran of three campaigns against the Spanish troops in Cuba, and has won his way up to the rank of major by his bravery and ability. Though still in knee breeches, he has served with Gomez, the commander-in-chief of the insurgent forces; with both Antonio and Jose Maceo, with Rodriguez and Rabi, and his known what it is to be wounded by a bullet. His intelligence and excellent memory won him the place of aide to the commander-in-chief, and sometimes he acted as special messenger to the aged general. Time and again he led in the attack against the Spaniards, for he was light and his horse ran well with him, and no man could hesitate to follow when a lad of ten charged merrily. Now, having received the rank of major from Cisneros, who was president of the republic while Crescencio was winning fame, the lad has come to this country as ward of the Cuban government, and is studying to prepare himself for a military career.

Young Varona was in the first fight, soon after the war broke out, and was wounded once while leading an attacking column at Iguana. He fought on steadily until he was sent to the United States to be educated. He had played war at his home in Puerto Principe, and had slain the enemies of Cuba by the thousands in the little grove of palm trees near his house, where he charged with his machete, crossed trochas, broke up ambuscades and carried fortresses. His father had told him of the long war that ended in 1873, which had lasted more years than the boy had lived.

MAJ. DE VARONA.

(The Youngest Officer in the Cuban Army.)

When the news of Marti's death came the boy decided to run away, for Marti was a dear friend of his father, and Crescencio loved him for the brave deeds he had heard his father tell of. He would kill some Spaniards for Marti's sake. So he went.

Gomez was moving east, and was supposed to be somewhere to the south of Puerto Principe. Crescencio started south to find Gomez, and he did, but it took him 15 days to do it, during which time he had little to eat but fruit.

"I was almost a gnuva jelly when I reached the insurgents," he said to a Cincinnati Tribune reporter, in telling of the trip. "I ran away from home because my father would not give me permission to go to war, though he was glad I had a spirit to fight the Spaniards. I had another boy with me, Juan Prieto was his name. That means John Brown in English. He was three years older than I. He wanted to fight with Gomez also, but he could use carpenter's tools. So he was put to work at a tannery and in a shop to make saddles for the insurgents.

"Gen. Gomez gave me a jacket and trousers and a pair of shoes made in one of the insurgent factories. They were too large, but I could wear them with some leaves inside. Then I could wear sandals made of the bark from near the top of the palm trees, which were almost as good as shoes. I had a machete and a carbine, and a pistol, too. I was sure I should kill many Spaniards with them. I shot some, I know, but I could not stop to see if they were dead.

"The commander in chief kept me with him until we met Antonio Maceo, 'way to the east, near Point Guarico, almost at the end of the island. I was to aid to carry orders to the officers. I slept near him at night. Cisneros was there, too. He was president of the republic, and an old friend of my father. He sent a letter to my father, to tell him he would take good care of me if my father would let me stay. So my father said I might.

"When the president told me to go to America to my uncle, Enrique de Varona, who writes the paper La Patria in Philadelphia, I went with eight men to a place on the sea coast near Matanzas. We captured a small sailboat called in Spanish 'joli' and three sailors, and went to Nassau, on New Providence Island. Then we went over to Florida, and I came up on the steamer Niagara and met my uncle. I brought letters from the government to the delegation."
